Power On Powered Up To Become a Liaison for Local Charity

Power On Technologies, a Raytown based company served as liaison between St. Matthew's Episcopal Church and the Living Waters Ministry Center to deliver a gently used copy machine. St. Matthew's is donating the machine to Living Waters – a local community soup kitchen.

“As a philanthropic company, we are always looking for ways to give back to our local community,” said Patrick Searcy, President, Power On. “We’ve donated other pieces of office equipment to not-for-profits across the Kansas City metro and we thought it was important to share a good story with the Raytown community. Most people don’t understand the value of having a decent copy machine can make in fundraising and communication efforts for a not-for-profit organization.”

“Connecting the private and not-for-profit sectors for a common good is exciting. It’s great that Power On could serve as a conduit to make this happen,” said Tim Truesdale, Community Development Director – City of Raytown.
